

Terms of Reference for national climate finance consultant in Uganda

Background:

The Global Support Programme receives funding from the GEF and is jointly implemented by the United Nations Development Program (UNDP) and United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP). It is in this context that UNEP DTU Partnership through UNEP provides technical assistance to a range of countries on different areas of NDC implementation.

Many developing countries are currently thinking of ways to mobilize resources for meeting their climate change targets in their NDCs. However, the amount of climate finance flowing to the African countries remains well below the estimated needs. Developing countries are already keen to mobilize climate finance from both domestic and international sources for climate action to meet their mitigation targets under the Paris Agreement. A mix of public – both domestic and international - and private sector finance are required to support action at the scale needed.
